

How Many Things Can You Find Wrong With This Picture?

Puzzle # 94:

The Stoddard (aka University Center) Dining Hall

Yes indeed, the University Center dining hall is actually called the Stoddard Dining Hall. Why?

Because the Olde Gym that it's in, and the whole back of the building, is called Stoddard Hall! Whaddaya know.

Below is a picture of the Stoddard dining hall taken by the Admissions House. They must have air-brushed out a lot of things, because there's a ton of things missing or wrong about this photo. How many can you find?

Rules: There are many things wrong in the picture below. See how many you can spot. Answers have been provided.

- 1 Initials on receipt aren't doctored.
- 2 Information Tent is informative and enlightening.
- 3 Receipt Hall Monitor isn't chasing someone down.
- 4 The milk hasn't gone bad.
- 5 Instead of seltzer, soda is coming out of the soda machines.
- 6 Some asshole isn't lobbing food across the room.
- 7 Freshman girls aren't exchanging information on the fat content of the food.
- 8 Person leaving doesn't have the runs.
- 9 Someone is actually enjoying their dinner.
- 10 No-one is circulating a petition to save the rainforest.
- 11 The general manager has been the same person for over a month.
- 12 Rob Leeman.
- 13 The vegetarian tomato sauce doesn't have any meat in it.
- 14 They're selling more beer than cheese.
- 15 Fiat Lux banner mysteriously replaced with golden arches.
- 16 Clark has unashamedly hung its own flag with Yale and MIT.
- 17 G&P's daily schedules actually contain accurate, thorough information about the evening's activities.